Grace Hopper Celebration Opens Call for Participation

Be a part of the world’s largest conference for women in computing

Submissions for presentations, workshops, panels and other types of sessions are encouraged from women technologists at all levels—from undergraduate students to entry-level through senior women in industry, government, and academia.

Participating at GHC is a great opportunity to gain professional visibility, enhance your reputation with technical peers and advance your career.

Submit a proposal in one of the following areas:

- Human Computer Interaction
- Software Engineering
- Data Science
- Security
- Gaming/Computer Graphics/Animation (GFX)
- Internet of Things/Wearable Computing
- Faculty Track
- Career Track
- General Poster Session
- ACM Student Research Competition
- Student Opportunity Lab

As added inspiration, this year’s theme is “Everywhere. Everyone.”

Submissions are due by Friday, March 14, 2014
